

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this as a general letter of recommendation for Dylan Lepore. Dylan has served as the Editor in Chief of The Tartan, the student-run newspaper of Radford University since January, 2018. He started in that role in the second semester of his freshman year. It was a gamble hiring someone so young, but Dylan has proven himself extremely capable. He has weathered numerous challenges, some of which have been the most difficult I have seen an editor deal with in my 13 years overseeing Student Media at Radford.

Dylan has also recently taken on the role of Lab Tech Manager, managing our audio/visual equipment, computer and printer hardware, and software. Again, we are in very good hands with Dylan's combination of expertise and his eagerness to learn.

Dylan demands much of himself and those around him. I would rate him as one of the best Editors-in-Chief of the Tartan I have worked with in my 13 years at Radford University.

Sincerely,

Geoff White
